Style Guide

Hello from the Swyft team.

The clocks go back, the lamps go on, and the sofa becomes the most important seat in the house.

This year's autumn/winter trends don't ask you to start again. They build on the warm, deep shades you loved last season, then soften them, layer them and make them easier to live with. If you shopped our AW25 guide, everything you bought still fits right in.

Whether you're refreshing one corner or getting the whole house ready for guests, this guide is here to help you make the most of the colder months.

Inside, you'll discover:

- The AW26 palette, and how to wear it with Swyft fabrics
- Texture, comfort and the art of the cosy sofa
- Modern heritage: prints, pieces and stories
- How to get your home ready for the hosting season

Lamps on. Feet up. Let's begin.

The AW26 Palette

Last year, we told you about deep cherry reds, burnt orange, forest green and inky navy. Good news: those shades haven't gone anywhere. They've just mellowed.

Flick through this season's homeware collections and the same six colours keep turning up: caramel, rust, burgundy, olive, powder blue and butter yellow, with chocolate brown anchoring the lot. Rather than a hard reset, AW26 is an evolution. Warm without being heavy. Colourful without shouting.

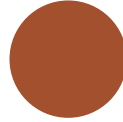

It's a palette made for long evenings in, and it works just as well on a sofa as it does on a candle.

The six shades, and how to style them

Caramel

Lighter and softer than last year's chocolate. It works as a sofa colour in its own right or as the bridge between cream and darker browns. Try Maple leather or Bronze velvet.

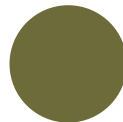

Rust

The most autumnal shade on the list. Pair it with caramel and brown for a fully earthy room. Try Russet chenille or Brick velvet.

Burgundy

The grown-up red. Glossy accents, taper candles and cushions are the easiest way in. Try Harissa chenille, or go all in with our Morris & Co Pimpernel print.

Olive and moss

Warmer, yellow-based greens are taking over from cool sage. They sit happily next to every other shade here. Try Vine velvet, Pine chenille, Fennel cord or Conifer mottled velvet.

Powder blue

Soft, chalky blue stops a dark-season palette from feeling heavy. Try Seaglass linen or Hydro chenille.

Butter and ochre

A little sunshine for short days. Best in smaller doses: an armchair, a lamp, a cushion. Try Mustard velvet.

The anchor: chocolate brown

Still the season's hero neutral. Try Umber velvet or Chestnut faux leather.

How to style them

Six shades is a lot to play with. Here's how to pair them with Swyft's own fabrics:

- Burgundy and powder blue. The pairing of the season. Start with a Seaglass or Hydro sofa and bring burgundy in through cushions, a throw and candles. Or flip it: a Harissa sofa with pale blue accents.
- Caramel, olive and cream. A Pumice or Flax base, a Vine armchair and caramel leather or warm wood. Calm, natural and easy to live with.
- Rust, brown and butter. A Russet sofa, an Umber ottoman and a butter-yellow lamp. The cosiest combination here.
- Olive and burgundy. A Pine sofa with a burgundy throw. Moody, rich and made for candlelight.
- Neutral first, colour second. Not ready to commit? Keep the big pieces in Pumice, Flax, Mink or Bone and let cushions, throws and lamps carry the palette. Swap them out next season.

Styling tip: Not sure about a burgundy sofa? Start with burgundy cushions and a few taper candles on a powder-blue or neutral base. If you still love it in January, go bigger.

Texture and the Cosy Sofa

Cosy-maxxing. Burrowcore. Whatever you call it, the mood this winter is the same: a home that feels like a retreat from the outside world. Think tucked-in, storybook comfort, the kind of room you don't want to leave once the curtains are drawn.

Paint and accessories used to do most of the heavy lifting. This season, texture is taking over. The fabric on your sofa, the knit on your throw and the pile of your rug set the tone before a single lamp goes on.

Know your fabrics

Bouclé

A looped, nubby surface you can see from across the room. Cream still leads, but warmer, deeper bouclés are gaining ground this year. Try Fern bouclé.

Cord

Ribbed texture with a relaxed, 70s feel. Our water-repellent cord comes in Fennel and Atlantic.

Chenille

Soft, dense and tactile, with a gentle sheen. It's the fabric of the season, and we've added four new shades to match: Flax, Russet, Pine and Mink.

Velvet

Still here, but less formal. This year velvet is for everyday lounging, not the best room. Our easy-clean velvet range now includes the new Petrol.

Shape

- Go deep. Deep-sit sofas, corners and U-shapes are built for lying down, not just sitting up.
- Soften the edges. Curves and rounded arms are replacing hard, linear shapes.
- Add an ottoman. Feet up is the whole point. A storage ottoman also hides the blankets.

Layer it up

- Mix three textures. One smooth (velvet or leather), one nubby (bouclé or chenille), one knitted (a chunky throw).
- Checks and knits. Checked throws and knitted cushions are everywhere this season.
- Don't forget the floor. A deep-pile rug grounds the sofa and warms up cold feet.
- Add a detail. Piping, frills and tassels are back on cushions and lampshades.

Styling tip: When every texture is in the same colour family, a room feels calm. When every colour is in the same texture, it feels flat. Vary one, keep the other steady.

Pools of light

The quickest way to make a room feel cosy is to switch off the big light. This season, lighting is all about soft, low pools of glow around the room.

- Amber and frosted glass. Tinted shades cast a golden-hour glow, even at 4pm in December.
- Fabric and pleated shades. Softer than metal, and they hide the bulb.
- Portable lamps. Rechargeable lamps move from the dinner table to the bedside to the bath.
- Warm-white bulbs. Check the box before you buy. Cool white undoes all your hard work.

Modern Heritage

Not everything in your home needs to be new to feel current. Designers this season are mixing inherited pieces and vintage finds with contemporary furniture, creating rooms that feel collected rather than bought in one go.

The idea is simple: buy less, buy better, and keep the things that mean something. A chair from your grandmother's house. A print picked up on holiday. A sofa you'll still love in ten years.

The return of heritage prints

Last year, it was stripes and checks. This year, prints are getting smaller and older: ditsy florals, block prints, faded checks and botanical motifs that feel like they've been around for decades. Some of them have.

Swyft x Morris & Co.

Our collaboration brings Morris & Co designs to Swyft sofas, sofa beds, beds and accessories. This season, four new prints join the collection, and they could have been made for AW26.

NEW TO THE COLLECTION

- Pimpernel. William Morris drew it in 1876 and hung it in his own dining room at Kelmscott House. Oversized terracotta blooms and trailing sage-green stems on a deep burgundy ground. The AW26 palette in a single print.
- Wandle. Named after the river that ran through Morris's Merton Abbey works, and the largest repeat he ever attempted for a printed textile. Large, layered blooms in cream and ochre on an ink-blue ground.

- Seasons by May. Based on an embroidery by May Morris, William's daughter, from around 1895. Trellised parakeets among roses and tulip stems on a rich brick-red ground.
- Arbutus. One of only two wallpapers Kathleen Kersey designed for Morris & Co, published in 1913. Tan branches and small clusters of deep red berries on soft cream. The quietest of the new four.

THE ORIGINALS

- Fruit. One of William Morris's earliest designs, from 1864, showing a laden fruit tree. Mustard-gold fruit and bottle-green leaves on a soft sage ground.
- Willow. Based on Willow Boughs (1887), an all-over trail of stems and leaves. A muted grey-green leaf on a pale oatmeal ground.
- Blackthorn. Designed by J.H. Dearle in 1892. Cream blossom and rust-coloured flowers on a blue-grey ground, with navy branches.

They all sit comfortably in this season's palette. Pimpernel brings the burgundy, terracotta and sage. Wandle brings the deep blue and ochre. Seasons by May and Blackthorn bring the warm reds and rust, and Fruit brings the olive and butter yellow. Willow and Arbutus are the calmer, neutral options.

Pairing prints with plains

- One hero print. Let a Morris & Co sofa or bed be the star. Keep cushions and throws plain.
- Pull a colour out. Take a supporting shade from the print and repeat it elsewhere. Blackthorn's rust works with a Russet cushion. Pimpernel's sage works with a Fennel cord armchair. Wandle's ochre works with a Mustard velvet cushion.
- Mix your scales. If the sofa carries the pattern, keep other prints small: a block-print lampshade or a ditsy table runner.
- Ground it with wood. Darker woods and warm finishes stop a printed room from feeling busy.

Warm woods and finishes

Darker, richer woods like walnut are taking centre stage, and dark bronze is this season's favourite metallic for handles, lamps and frames. Look for walnut finishes across our bedroom and office ranges, including Bed 04, Bed 05 and Desk 01.

Tell your story

The most personal trend of the season isn't a colour or a print. It's putting out the things that mean something to you: records, ceramics, books, the odd object that only makes sense to you. Give them a shelf, not a drawer.

Styling tip: Start with one piece that has history: an old chest, a framed print or an inherited chair. Then build the room around it with a warm, modern palette so it feels collected, not themed.

The Hosting Season

The pristine show home is out. This year, homes are being set up for gathering: long dinners, film nights, board games, and the friend who ends up staying over.

A few changes now make the next three months a lot easier, whether you're hosting six for dinner or two for Christmas.

The gathering room and the table

The gathering room

- Count the seats. Ottomans and footstools double as extra seating when everyone turns up at once. A storage ottoman keeps the board games and blankets close by.
- Face the conversation. Modular sofas can be rearranged to face each other, not just the TV.
- Make one cosy corner. An armchair, a lamp and a side table give someone a place to sit back from the crowd.
- Go dark in a nook. A small corner in tobacco brown or deep green feels instantly intimate.

The table

- Dress it in the palette. Powder-blue linen, burgundy tapers, amber glass. Mix, don't match.
- Keep the centrepiece low. Pears, dried grasses and candles look good and let people see each other.
- Upholster the ends. Upholstered dining chairs or a bench add texture and comfort for long dinners.
- Plan for extra guests. Our Dining Table 01 and 03 extend from 165 to 220 cm.

Styling tip: Light the candles before guests arrive. A room already glowing at the door sets the tone for the whole evening.

Guests overnight

No spare room? No problem. A sofa bed gives you a sofa all year and a bed when you need one.

- Short on space? The Model 08 chair bed fits a corner of the smallest room.
- Need storage too? The Model 12 corner sofa bed has built-in storage for spare bedding.
- Want extra comfort? Add a mattress topper.

Our full sofa bed range includes Models 02, 04, 08, 10, 11 and 12.

The 24-hour guest-ready checklist

1. Open the sofa bed and test it. Add the topper.
2. Make it up with fresh bedding, two pillows each and a throw for the morning.
3. Clear a surface for a lamp, a glass of water and a phone charger.
4. Leave out a towel and somewhere to hang clothes.
5. Stash the spare bedding back in storage once they've gone.

Order in time for Christmas

There's still time to get your home guest-ready before the big day. Need it sooner? Next-day delivery sofas ordered before 3:30pm, Monday to Friday, arrive the next working day.
